

Lon Appleby - Bio

Lon Appleby is an award-winning documentary producer, journalist, and general education professor in the School of Interdisciplinary Studies at Durham College in Oshawa, Canada.

Along with launching The Global Class, he teaches classes in literature, cultural studies, and world history. His work has taken him across the world, and he has combined his experiences and travels, along with his interest in the importance of collective learning, into a forward-looking "glocal" vision for today's college and university students.