

Allison Hector-Alexander

Allison Hector-Alexander is the director of the Office of Equity, Diversity and Inclusion at Durham College and works from a feminist, anti-racist, and anti-oppressive framework. Her work centres on equity, social justice, allyship, and anti-racist education, advocacy and program development on campus and with organizations in the community. Allison has been recognized as a Champion by PFLAG Canada Durham Region for her work in creating inclusive spaces on campus. The Region of Durham has recognized Allison's work with the Diversity Champion award and in 2019, Allison was awarded the Madiba Award. Allison completed her Bachelor of Arts (Hons) degree in Adult Education and Digital Technologies and a Masters of Education degree with a focus on access and equitable practices in Higher Education.