My name is Greg Jedynecki.

I've spent my last five years at Durham College, where I've been provided with many opportunities for development and growth, so I've done my best to give back to this school by getting involved wherever I can. I'm President of the DCAA, run a business employing DC students, and am Director of the Board from the faculty of Business. My next step in giving back would be to use my skills and experience to help shape the future of the College.
